

Plain Writing Act Compliance Report of the Farm Credit Administration

April 15, 2022

FCA staff who are responsible for Plain Writing Act compliance

- Mike Stokke, director of the Office of Congressional and Public Affairs, is the senior agency official for plain writing. His email address is stokkem@fca.gov.
- Emily Yaghmour, deputy director of the Office of Congressional and Public Affairs, is the agency's plain language coordinator. Her email address is yaghmoure@fca.gov.

FCA documents covered by the Plain Writing Act

FCA has identified the following agency documents as covered by the Plain Writing Act:

- Reports of Examination
- Informational Memorandums
- Bookletters
- Policy Statements
- Legal Opinions
- Major agency reports, such as the Annual Report on the Farm Credit System, the Performance and Accountability Report, and the Annual Proposed Budget and Performance Plan
- Text for the website
- Regulatory preambles

The following table provides more detail about some of these documents.

Table 1. FCA documents to which plain language principles are applied

Publication type	Audience	How we ensure these documents comply
All major agency reports, all of which are available on our website.	These documents have multiple audiences: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Representatives of the Farm Credit System • Members of Congress • Media representatives • The general public 	Staff members in the Office of Congressional and Public Affairs edit these documents. They are well trained in the principles of plain writing.
Reports of Examination — presented to directors on the boards of the institutions we regulate	Directors on the boards of Farm Credit System institutions review these reports. FCA examiners use these reports to document findings from the exams they perform. Approximately 10 to 20 individuals (the institution’s directors and members of management) review each report. The System consists of 72 lending institutions.	Supervisory examiners now review these reports specifically for their clarity.
Guidance documents for Farm Credit System institutions, including informational memorandums and board policy statements	Directors on the boards of Farm Credit System institutions, as well as members of management, review these documents. The number of readers range from 1,000 to 2,000. However, because these documents are posted on our website, the general public may also read these documents.	Each major office division in the agency now has a designated plain writing reviewer. The reviewer for the office that is primarily responsible for producing a particular document reviews it for clarity. Frequently, the office division asks the agency’s plain writing coordinator to edit documents for plain language.
News releases, issued electronically and posted on the agency’s website	The primary audiences include agricultural and finance reporters and representatives of the Farm Credit System. We send our releases to more than 300 reporters in print and broadcasting.	Since long before the Plain Writing Act was enacted, we have worked hard to write our releases in journalistic style. As a result of plain writing training, FCA writers and editors are more knowledgeable of the principles of plain writing.
FCA website	The audiences for our website include the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Representatives of the Farm Credit System • Borrowers and potential borrowers • Members of the media • Members of Congress • The general public 	In 2018, we revamped our website. We reviewed all the pages for plain writing and rewrote much of the content. The vendor that worked with us to revamp the site also provided some plain writing guidance.

Publication type	Audience	How we ensure these documents comply
FCA Today, the agency's electronic employee newsletter	The agency's workforce of about 300 individuals constitutes the audience for the newsletter.	Individuals from across the agency submit content for the newsletter to the Office of Congressional and Public Affairs. OCPA editors provide plain-language edits to the articles and clear these edits with the article authors.

How we communicate Plain Writing Act requirements to staff

FCA plain writing SharePoint site

On FCA's intranet site, we maintain a plain writing SharePoint site. In March 2020, we redesigned this page to make it more user-friendly and engaging. The purpose of the page is as follows:

- List the documents we produce that must comply with the Plain Writing Act
- Provide employees with information about training
- Provide links to many plain writing resources
- Refer employees to StyleWriter, a tool on the agency's network that employees can use to help them evaluate the clarity of their documents
- Encourage submissions for consideration for the annual FCA Plain Writing Award

FCA publication resources SharePoint site

In 2016, we launched a publication resources SharePoint site. It contains the agency style guide in HTML. Chapter 2 of the style guide focuses on writing in plain language. We added a link to the style guide from the homepage of our intranet site for quick access.

Articles in the employee newsletter about plain writing

Since April 2021, we have published the following articles in FCA Today, the agency's electronic employee newsletter:

- "Celebrate National Grammar Day, March 4, with a trip to Planet Word," March 3, 2022
- "OCPA explains procedures for FCA Today and news flashes," Nov. 4, 2021
- "Small Agency Council offers virtual course on business writing with a plain language approach," Oct. 28, 2021
- "Don't scare your readers away," Oct. 20, 2021 (an article about writing with short paragraphs, headings, ample white space, and ragged right margin)
- "Plain Writing Wednesday: Plain writing tips to make life easier for your readers," June 23, 2021

Training program

Since starting the program in 2011, we have provided training in various ways. The following table shows training that has occurred since April 15, 2021.

Table 2. FCA plain writing training, April 2021 – April 2022

Type of Training	Number of Employees Trained	Date
Online training for new employees. To provide plain writing training to new employees, we have adapted Kathryn Catania’s plain writing PowerPoint presentation for our purposes. Leland A. Strom, the agency’s chairman and CEO from 2008 to 2012, narrated the slides. Every new employee is required to view the presentation online. We have also posted the training on our Plain Writing SharePoint page for use by all employees.	32	April 15, 2021 – March 31, 2022
Self-study curriculum. Our Office of Examination offered a self-study curriculum — POWER Writing I and II. These courses, which were developed by a contractor in 2020, cover many of the principles in the Federal Plain Language Guidelines. These two courses are part of the mandatory training that all associate examiners receive when they join FCA.	Writing I – 16 to 18 Writing II – 19 to 20	Summer and fall 2021

Awards program

To provide an incentive for employees to focus on clear communication, we have developed a plain writing awards program for which offices submit documents that are exemplary for their clarity. The agency presents annual awards to the authors of the winning documents.

On April 14, 2022, our board presented plain writing awards to two employees. The winning documents were a video script explaining the rollout of new laptops to FCA employees and an informational memorandum on the Paycheck Protection Program. We also recognized an employee with an honorable mention for a report of examination.

These awards were from the 2020 calendar year, which was the eighth consecutive year that we presented plain writing awards. The ceremony to present the awards was delayed two years because of the pandemic. We suspended the award program in 2021 but will resume taking submissions in the fall of 2022 for the 2022 Plain Writing Award.

Clearance process

Documents undergo plain language reviews within their originating offices. Our Office of Examination in particular has emphasized the importance of plain writing reviews by including plain writing guidelines in the internal control document that FCA examiners must use when they review reports of examination.

For many of the documents that are posted on the FCA website, the editors in the Office of Congressional and Public Affairs perform comprehensive plain language reviews. To measure the effectiveness of these reviews, they sometimes run the StyleWriter application on documents before and after reviewing them, often seeing a significant improvement in the “bog index” after the review. (The bog index is a measure that StyleWriter uses to evaluate the readability of a document. It takes into account sentence length, word difficulty, the use of abbreviations, and passive verbs.)

The number of documents that receive comprehensive plain writing reviews has increased substantially in recent years. Last year, OCPA editors performed comprehensive reviews of eight informational memorandums and two bookletters. At the request of other FCA offices, they also reviewed and edited other documents for the agency, including ethics training, Webex instructions, standards of conduct training, and a financial education and literacy report.

Clear communication continued to be important this past year because of changing guidance related to the pandemic. In addition to providing plain writing reviews for most of the guidance documents that were issued over the past 12 months, OCPA editors also provided plain language reviews for the messages that senior staff issued to employees, including five videos. They also edited hundreds of newsletter articles explaining employee benefits, training, events, and staff changes during the same reporting period.

Style guide

In late 2015, the Office of Congressional and Public Affairs worked with plain language consultant Ginny Redish to finalize a style guide for the use of all FCA employees. We modeled the style guide after the National Archives’ guide. For the most part, our guide follows the style conventions of the Associated Press.

In addition to providing guidance on punctuation, capitalization, and other style issues, the guide contains a section on plain writing. It includes many examples from FCA documents. In April 2016, we published the guide in a wiki library on the agency’s intranet site. The guide is proving to be a valuable resource to all the agency’s writers and editors, and particularly to our plain writing reviewers. We continue to update the guide as staff notice omissions or suggest enhancements.

Implementation timeline

We set up our plain writing program in 2011. The following table shows a timeline for the implementation of the program.

Table 3. FCA’s timeline for implementing the Plain Writing Act

Action	Target Deadline	Results
The agency will train all employees who write or edit documents covered by the Plain Writing Act.	April 13, 2012	Ninety-three percent of the 57 employees for whom training was mandatory have received training. In addition, 54 employees for whom the training was not mandatory have received training.

Action	Target Deadline	Results
FCA will complete an online training presentation that will serve as mandatory plain writing training for all new FCA employees.	April 13, 2013	The agency began using the online training presentation in August 2012.
The agency will implement an awards program to recognize examples of plain writing.	April 13, 2013	The chair of the FCA board approved creation of the plain writing award program in March 2013, and the awards program was announced to senior managers in April.
FCA will provide resources and guidance to plain writing reviewers throughout the agency.	April 13, 2013	FCA held a training session for five plain writing reviewers on March 20, 2013.
In July 2013, FCA announced the 2013 FCA Plain Writing Award in its electronic employee newsletter. The announcement encouraged employees to submit documents to be considered for the award. In November, a panel of reviewers from across FCA gathered to review and judge 11 submissions.	December 2013	In a ceremony on Dec. 11, 2013, FCA Board Chair Jill Long Thompson presented plain writing awards to two FCA employees.
On Oct. 29, 2014, we hired Ginny Redish, renowned plain language expert and author of "Letting Go of the Words," to deliver a half-day workshop to FCA employees.	Oct. 29, 2014	Approximately 30 employees, including many examiners and attorneys, attended the training. We collected 23 surveys, ranking the workshop as "excellent" or "very good."
In October 2014, FCA employees submitted 14 documents for consideration for the 2014 Plain Writing Award. The panel of judges selected a winning document written by two FCA employees. In October 2020, FCA employees submitted 14 documents, or portions of documents, for consideration for the 2020 Plain Writing Award. Using StyleWriter statistics on each document and a checklist from plainlanguage.gov, the panel of judges selected two winning documents.	December 2020	Because of the pandemic, the agency put its awards ceremony for 2020 and 2021 on hold until April 14, 2022. On this date, Board Member Jeff Hall recognized the authors of the two winning documents from the 2020 Plain Writing Award contest.

Agency's plain writing website

Plain Writing at FCA is the agency's official plain writing web page. It is located at www.fca.gov/home/plainwriting.html. A link to the page is available from our homepage.

Our plain writing page contains a link to the FCA Plain Writing Act Implementation Plan \(PDF\), which was published on July 8, 2011.

To give the public an opportunity to report FCA documents that are difficult to understand, the agency's plain writing web page provides contact information for Emily Yagmour, the agency's plain writing coordinator.

As of yet, we have received no feedback from the public, either positive or negative, through our plain writing web page.
